Unique New York.

Three free throws.

Red leather, yellow leather.

Rubber baby, buggy bumpers.

Red blood, blue blood.

She sells seashells on the seashore.

A proper copper coffee pot.

Betty bought butter but the butter was bitter.

Comical economists.

Swiss wristwatches.

Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers.

She should shun the shinning sun.

The big black back brake broke badly.

The big beautiful blue balloon burst.

A shapeless sash sags slowly.

Smelly shoes and sock shock sisters.

Shave a single shingle thin.

Cinnamon aluminium linoleum.

New York is unanimously universally unique.

Cooks cook cupcakes quickly.

Flora's freshly fried fish.

A bragging baker baked black bread.

Buy blue blueberry biscuits before bedtime.

She sold six shabby sheared sheep on ship.

These thousand tricky tongue twisters trip thrillingly off the tongue.
